7 DAYS. ONE REAL START.

Your side-hustle starter guide

A practical workbook to move from an idea to a small experiment - without spending money on things nobody needs.

THE GOAL

Choose one audience, understand one problem, create one useful offer and learn from real feedback. Your first goal is evidence, not instant profit.

Before you start

You only need a notebook, a way to research, and a small block of focused time each day. The plan works for a freelance service, a digital product, or a content website.

Pick a direction

Examples: write clear CVs, create study templates, edit short videos, build simple business websites, or publish useful niche guides.

Your idea: _____

Who it helps: _____

The problem it solves: _____

A realistic success metric

By Day 7, aim to produce one sample, write one clear offer and gather a few honest reactions. Not every idea will be worth pursuing - learning that early is useful.

Note: This guide is educational. It does not promise earnings. Check the laws and taxes that apply to your business.

The seven-day action plan

DAY 01 / Choose one skill and one audience

List three skills you can offer. Choose one specific group, such as university students, local cafés or independent tutors. Write the problem they face.

DAY 02 / Research the problem

Look at relevant public discussions, reviews and common questions. Direct conversations can help, but are optional for an affiliate/content project. Note what people repeatedly ask for.

DAY 03 / Define a simple offer

Write one sentence: “I help [audience] solve [problem] with [solution].” Keep it concrete and believable.

DAY 04 / Make a small sample

Build a mini portfolio page, one template, a short tutorial or an example service result. Make it useful before making it fancy.

DAY 05 / Estimate the numbers

Work out likely revenue, platform fees, tools, time and taxes. If you use affiliate links, confirm the program terms and disclose commercial relationships.

DAY 06 / Publish and share responsibly

Share the sample in appropriate communities or on your own channels. Avoid spam. Watch what people view, click or ask about.

DAY 07 / Review and improve

Write down what you learned. Keep one thing, change one thing and choose the next action. A weak response is information - not failure.

A quick weekly check-in

☐ I chose one audience. ☐ I built a useful sample. ☐ I checked the costs.

☐ I shared it responsibly. ☐ I know the next step.

Make your next move

Use these prompts to turn the week into a repeatable habit.
